1. Admissions overview

1-1. About the Graduate School of Film and New Media Doctoral Program in Film and New Media Studies

1-1-1. Overview

In today's world where image-based creative expression and image-related technological innovation are accelerating in tandem, there is a demand for artists and researchers who possess a broad, organized knowledge of images. The study of film and media focuses on the pursuit of image-based creative expression that incorporates a high level of contemporaneity, and the development of methods for expression and fundamental techniques. We hope to clarify the role played by images within culture and the potential for further development of visual culture, and that expertise previously limited to the experiences of creatives will be converted into knowledge capable of being shared with society as a whole.

Tokyo University of the Arts Graduate School of Film and New Media provides a unique environment for deeper theoretical work and practical research. The faculty in the Master's Degree Program at the Department of Film Production, Department of New Media and Department of Animation conduct lectures and seminars for the Film and New Media Doctoral Program and provide continuing support for individual students. The program includes presentations to research societies, preliminary review based on academic work, and the submission of a doctoral thesis. Theory-centric doctoral theses take the form of a traditional thesis, and practice-centric theses are presented as an exhibition or screening with a complementary thesis. The thesis is reviewed by a committee that includes experts from outside the department, reflecting the complex nature of the field. Graduates of the program are in highly specialized positions as university faculty members, independent researchers and archivists.

1-1-2. Course completion requirements

The Graduate School of Film and New Media Doctoral Degree Program takes at least three years to complete. Students complete the program by obtaining the required number of credits, and passing the doctoral thesis review and examinations with faculty guidance. The doctoral thesis review may include the student's work, depending on the nature of the research subject.

1-1-3. Academic degree

Students who have completed the Doctoral Program in Film and New Media Studies at the Graduate School of Film and New Media are conferred with a Doctor of Philosophy (Film and Media) or Doctor of Philosophy (Arts and Sciences) degree.

1-1-4. Student selection

Applicants with artistic experience will be evaluated based on their body of work to determine whether they possess the necessary capabilities to undertake research at a consistently high level in the Doctoral Program in Film and New Media Studies. For researchers, outcomes including academic papers and publications will be evaluated alongside communication skills to ensure that they are competent to undertake research. Applicants are required to submit a research plan.

1-2. Admissions policy of the Graduate School of Film and New Media (Doctoral Program)

The Graduate School of Film and New Media's doctoral program seeks artists and researchers who can organically combine a wide range of knowledge related to film.
